Golfers play on after man dies on course

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

GOLFERS were allowed to continue playing on a course despite a man dropping dead on it.

The body of 39-year-old Mehul Shah lay covered for several hours on the course at Abbey Hill Golf Centre while other players continued their rounds only yards away.

Players are angry that the course in Two Mile Ash stayed open claiming that the body could still be seen from nearby holes.

Mr Shah from Stone Hill, Two Mile Ash collapsed on Friday just after 4pm, ten yards from the back tee of the seventh hole.

Fellow golfers and paramedics tried to resuscitate him but Mr Shah died at the scene.

The Warwickshire and Northamptonshire Air Ambulance had also been called and landed at the nearby ninth hole at 4.34pm

Mr Shah's body remained on the course, covered by a blue plastic sheet, until 7.30pm when the undertakers arrived.

Michael Flavell, from Kepwick, Two Mile Ash, a Milton Keynes Golf Club member based at the centre, had known Mr Shah for ten years

He claimed: "All of the time the incident was going on the golf course was kept open, there was no respect.

"Every golfer would have been happy to miss two holes when they saw what was going on, it wouldn't have hurt anyone.

"It was a great shock to us.

"He had no illness before or anything, he was as fit as a fiddle. Mel was very very popular, he was bubbly, lively and very friendly. He will be so sadly missed."

Lisa Hurley, club president of Milton Keynes Golf Club, said: "The general feeling from most members is shock and sadness that something as simple as part of the course being shut when one of our members has died hasn't happened.

Air Ambulance doctor and crew along with paramedics attend at Abbey Hill golf course

"Mel was very well respected, he was a long-term member of the club.

"Some of our members were on the course at the time and it was very distressing for them. The club will be doing all it can to honour his memory."

Abbey Hill Golf Centre manager Gordon Foster said the seventh back tee was immediately closed and the nearby 9th hole closed for the air ambulance.

"Paramedics stayed with the deceased until police arrived and cordoned off a 10-metre area, prior to removal of the body by funeral directors," he said.

"Abbey Hill Golf Centre consulted with paramedics and police, who took charge of the scene, closely following directions and ensuring every necessary step was taken.

"The members and staff of Abbey Hill Golf Centre wish to extend their deepest sympathies to the family of the deceased."

A spokesman for Thames Valley Police said: "The golf course remained open as the incident occurred in a remote area of the course covered by trees and bushes.

"Officers were able to cordon off a large area of the golf course to deal with the incident discreetly and prevent causing distress to other people in the area."

Mr Shah, worked for Alps Electric, in Garamonde Drive, Wymbush.

The weekend before his death Mr Shah and his golfing partner Sean Robertson had won the club qualifying level of the International Pairs competition, and were due to compete in the heats in Scotland to get through to the final held at the famous Carnoustie golf course in Angus, Scotland.

Members of Milton Keynes Golf Club gathered at the centre on Sunday night to pay tribute to him and have started a collection for a memorial on the course.

Eaton Bray not the place to live longer

Stantonbury residents five years better off

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

IF you live in Eaton Manor you are likely to die five years earlier than those living in Stantonbury.

Average life expectancy figures just released for each ward reveal discrepancies across the city, and even within towns.

People living in the north of Newport Pagnell are likely to live until the age of 79.7 – whereas those in the south of the town statistically die at the age of 81.4.

And those in Linford North have a better outlook than those in the south – with an average life expectancy of 80.3 compared to 78.

The average mortality rate in Milton Keynes is 79.

However many areas see residents live beyond this, such as Loughton Park (79.2), Middleton (81.2) and Stony Stratford (80.5).

The figures, collated by Milton Keynes Intelligence Observatory, show that for a long life men are better off living in Sherington, where they can expect to reach the age of 80.3. But in Eaton Manor they can only expect to live until 74.6.

Women on average live until 85.8 in Stantonbury, whereas their Walton Park counterparts will reach the lesser age of 78.4.

A survey by the Office of National Statistics, the results of which were released last week, shows that men in Milton Keynes have a 66.1 per cent chance of living until they are 75 and women have a 76.1 per cent chance.

This puts the city behind the rest of the South East region, where men have a 69.8 per cent chance of living until 75, and 79.4 per cent of women do.

Though life may be shorter than neighbouring areas, life expectancy has improved dramatically over the past 25 years in Milton Keynes.

In 1981-3 just 47.9 per cent of men and 67.5 per cent of women could expect to survive until the age of 75.

Fine four fendered friend bang bang on

THE author of Chitty Chitty Bang Bang and the Bond novels has been remembered at Bletchley Park.

The centre celebrated the 100th centenary of the birth of Ian Fleming, who worked closely with the code breaking centre during World War Two.

The event, on Sunday, featured the original Chitty Chitty Bang Bang car that was used in the 1968 film, starring Dick Van Dyke, which is now 40-years-old.

There was also a competition for the chance to ride around Bletchley Park in the car, known as 'our fine four-fendered friend'.

Other attractions included guided tours of Bletchley Park, a Victorian fun fair, craft stalls, Punch and Judy and Milton Keynes' Sno!Zone brought along its mascot, Percy the Penguin, together with free prizes, face painting and free tobogganing.

Broken fountain too costly to repair

A CITY landmark will remain broken because it is too expensive to fix.

The fountain in the circular pool at the entrance of Campbell Park has been broken for months, however, Milton Keynes Parks Trust does not intend to pay the £10,000 it would cost to fix it.

The valve of the 30-year-old fountain is broken and to replace it requires the entire concrete structure to be moved.

Although Parks Trust representative Liz Woznicki admitted the water feature is possible to fix, she said that because there are plans to remodel the top part of the park it will not be attempted for the foreseeable future.

Rob Riekie, the landscape and forestry manager of the parks trust, added that the fountain can be turned on, but they must 'ensure it is a viable feature' before they spend any cash.

"We are reviewing how much money we will invest in the area.

"If that was going to be two years away then investing would not be worth it, but if it was in ten years' time then it might be."

He added that a visitor centre and landmark buildings are being discussed for the city's largest park.

"There will always be something of note there for the people of Milton Keynes."

'Substandard' op resulted in birth of unwanted child

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

A MOTHER of six has successfully sued Milton Keynes Hospital after a 'substandard' sterilisation operation failed to prevent her from falling pregnant with another child.

Mirella De Maio, 39, from Greenleys, has been awarded £20,000 after she gave birth to a son with kidney problems in December 2003.

Though around one in every 200 operations fails to prevent a women becoming pregnant, in this case the hospital's negligence was to blame.

Mrs De Maio, then a single mother of five, had an operation in April 2003 to ensure she had no more children.

She was already struggling to bring up the family when her fifth child, Gaetano, was born with a heart problem and had to have open heart surgery at the age of two.

Fearing that her next child would be born with an illness – and because she felt she could not cope with having another mouth to feed – she had the operation.

However the school dinner lady was 'shocked' to find later that year that she was five months pregnant.

She subsequently gave birth to a boy called Nunzio, who, although unrelated to the operation, has kidney problems.

Clinical negligence lawyers proved that the failure of the sterilisation was due to a substandard operation rather than natural causes, and the hospital accepted the evidence.

Mrs De Maio said: "I'm not angry with the hospital, I was just upset - there was no point in having the operation. It has been difficult."

Solicitor Louise Tyler, from Wilson Browne Solicitors, said: "I had to be extremely thorough with my research but was confident that the information and proof we had obtained would show negligence and the outcome of this case proved just that."

Opposition leaders meet over McCall issue

PARTY leaders met yesterday to find a way out of the stalemate caused by the row over who should run the authority.

The leaders of the three main political parties met with the Society of Local Authority Chief Executives and Senior Managers which has been called in to see if it can solve the dispute between the ruling Liberal Democrats and Tory and Labour opposition.

The opposition is calling for council leader Isobel McCall to be replaced due to mistakes made during the school build 'fiasco'.

They failed to oust her from her seat at the annual council meeting on Tuesday, May 20, but plan to change the council's constitution to remove her at the next meeting on June 10.

They also voted to form a cabinet of three and to temporarily move decision-making powers away from elected councillors to council officers, effectively preventing the leader from having a cabinet until the matter is resolved.

The impotent cabinet was due to meet last night.

Cllr McCall has said her party is behind her and the council must either accept a Liberal Democrat administration led by her, or the opposition parties must form an alternative administration.

The Conservatives believe the Liberal Democrats, as the largest group, should properly form the administration but not with the current leader.

Passengers being taken for a ride on rail fares

SIR – Philip Morgan can rest assured that he is not the only one who is annoyed by London Midland's £4.40 stealth charge on travellers from Bletchley to London.(MK NEWS, May 28).

And as for the curious logic behind the train company's argument, I wonder just what planet Matt Hurst is living on.

The plain, straightforward logic of working out fares is a simple one: the further you travel the more you pay – end of argument.

Besides, why should folk from Bletchley be forced to travel up to the Central station just to save a few pounds? There is no rhyme or reason behind it, and the only thing that is open to travellers is to refuse to countenance such fraud.

I can remember, back in the days of British Rail, when, besides the standard fares, there were four different saver fares, tailored to the different traveller.

There was the Awayday return, valid during off-peak times and weekends, and for a long time not(as far as I was aware) tied to distance. There was the Weekend Return – leave on Friday or Saturday, return Sunday or Monday, again the off-peak rule reigned. For someone going on the usual fortnight's holiday there was the 17-day Return, while if you were prepared to leave in mid-week there was also the Economy Return, about which I only recall the name.

Then, in 1986, when I wanted a day return from Watford Junction to Coventry, I was blandly told that I could only have a Saver return, more expensive, and ostensibly because the distance suggested someone going away for a weekend. Well, travel-time-wise, Coventry isn't all that far from Watford, only an hour by the faster trains. Anyway, a 50-mile travel limit had been set on day returns, and British Rail seemed as deaf as a post to the resultant bad public relations such a change generated.

London Midland, take warning from the case of British Rail. Simplify your fare structures, make them consistent with the distance travelled, and all will be well. And a further warning to all other rail operators: if you insist on making it complicated you can't really complain if a passenger gets annoyed at being penalised because of some small print exclusion. Either make exclusiona plain or else leave them out altogether.

Bound to aplogise for unwanted, unwarranted nomenclature

SIR – I came across your newspaper for the first time a couple of weeks ago and was very impressed with the quality of the product, well worth its 2008 UK Weekly Newspaper of the Year title.

There was plenty in it for what is essentially a free newspaper.

I was impressed with the MK Life, Property and Motors and MKRecruitment sections, and the interesting advertising mix. And the print quality, clarity, cleanness of pages and overall standard of reporting, sub-editing and photography was good.

It's one of the best newspaper packages I have seen in 45 years in journalism. Well done team!

However, could I please be allowed a gripe?

As a member of the National Union of Journalists' Disabled Members Council I was disappointed to see the reference to 'a wheelchair-bound' woman on page 2 (Wheelchair mum guilty of wounding, May 21).

There is no such thing. A wheelchair takes the place of a person's legs, is an aid to mobility and people in wheelchairs are, quite simply, wheelchair USERS.

Wheelchair users are not bound to, or confined to the chair and many people find the phrase wheelchair-bound insulting, offensive and derogatory.

Yours is not the first newspaper I have seen using the phrase and, sadly, I don't suppose it will the last.

It is a matter of educating not only journalists but members of the public generally to have respect for disabled people.

They are an important, proud part of society – some of whom happen to use wheelchairs.

Disabled people just want to get on with life as best they can, as useful, contributing members of society without having an added, unwanted, unwarranted and often hurtful added burden to cope with.

Bedworth, Warwickshire

Take your partners – please

SIR – A recent survey carried out by Mark Lancaster suggests that more than 90 per cent of the people think that local people should decide on the expansion of Milton Keynes.

Milton Keynes Partnership Committee(MKPC) is a nominated body and not an elected body. It is not accountable to the public.

The role of MKPC is to co-ordinate and implement the delivery of growth and ensure that homes, infrastructure, jobs and community facilities are provided as a part of a joined approach. It has planning powers to determine major applications within the expansion area. The expansion plan is currently stipulated by the government and implemented by MKPC.

The Partnership Committee consists of three sets of membership and some of the representations in the committee need to be questioned. The organisation/delivery agents consist of representatives such as English Partnership, MK College, voluntary organisations, councillors, Thames Valley Police, MK Park Trust and so on.

The second set of membership consists of Community Safety Partnership, Environmental Partnership, Connexions' local Management Committee, Joint Health & Social care Board, MK Economy & Learning Partnership and so on.

The third group consists of public members from various organisations such as Gay and Lesbian Link, Interfaith, Minority Ethnic Communities, older people, younger people, Union Congress (?), Q: Alliance (I do not know what it stands for) and so on. In addition there is a community representative and a cultural sector representative.

I am concerned what the representatives from MKREC, Interfaith, Q-Alliance and so on know about planning. Do they really represent Milton Keynes public? The members are paid more than £7,000 a year for 15 days work.

There is so much of cronyism and favouritism that goes on in the nomination of the public representatives since the nominee has to be proposed and seconded by the partnership committee members and the retiring members are eligible for re-nomination.

There is no independent selection committee for short listing and for interviewing the candidates. It is left to the committee members to vote for the candidates. It seems that MKPC policy is that 'you scratch my back and I will scratch yours'.

I fully agree with a conservative councillor who had suggested to abolish the Milton Keynes Partnership and replace it with a local, democratically controlled Arms length Management Delivery organisation (call it a Development Corporation.)

The gift of time

SIR – I'm writing on behalf of The Stroke Association to pay tribute to our team of volunteers during this important week National Volunteers Week.

Every five minutes, someone in the UK has a stroke – a brain attack.

Without the unselfish dedication and enthusiasm of our volunteers, we could not give those affected by stroke the support they need.

Whether it is their direct assistance within one of the rehabilitation and support services, or their involvement in raising funds or awareness of stroke, we are reliant on and appreciative of this gift of time from our many volunteers.

As chairman of council for The Stroke Association (a voluntary role), it has been an honour to meet and work with so many of our volunteers across the UK. I would encourage anyone with time to give to get in touch at volunteering@stroke.org.uk or visit www.stroke.org.uk.

Recycling delight

SIR – I was delighted to read about the achievements of this city in recycling.

You featured two strories last week which highlighted how MK and its residents are trying their hardest to be green.

It is a shame that the council feels it has to offer money to people to get them to recycle in the first place with its Cash for Trash scheme.

But at least it has recognised that rubbish is an issue and if a carrot has to be dangled to get the message across then so be it.

I think that thecentre:mk should also be praised for 'doing its bit'.

I know most people see it as a huge money-making machine but at least it is taking the subject seriously. Can the same be said of all other shopping centres across the country?

Cancer sufferer bets on his own life – and wins

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

THE man who bet he would defy the doctors' death sentence is the only person in the world to have gambled on his own life.

Terminally-ill Jon Matthews, 58, was diagnosed with mesothelioma, an asbestos-related form of lung cancer, in April 2006.

Doctors said he would not see Christmas that year.

But in September 2007 – still alive and feeling healthier – Mr Matthews placed a £100 bet at odds of 50/1 that he would still be alive by June 1, 2008.

This would mean he had survived 25 months, the point by which most people suffering from the disease have died.

On Sunday Mr Matthews collected his £5,000 winnings, half of which he will dontate to the cancer charity Macmillan and animal home Hula.

Following the media frenz – yesterday he even appeared on a radio show in Haiti – he said he feels 'frazzled'.

William Hill bookies, with whom Mr Matthews placed his bet, say he is the only man to have bet on his life and, for once, they were pleased to give out a punter's winnings.

The former salesman from Woburn Sands, who has twice been made bankrupt, has spent the last eight years caring for his 83-year-old father and 82-year-old mother, who suffers from dementia.

"I'm quite impressed, I never expected this reaction," he said.

"I thought it might get a bit of a mention.

"In April 2006 I was told I had nine months to live. I just expected to die.

"My biggest concern was because I do care for my parents – I wasn't worrying for myself.

"I paid for my funeral and made my will because I should have died by the end of 2006.

"We've all got to snuff it at some time."

Graham Sharpe, media relations manager at William Hill, said: "I've been doing this for 30 years and I've never seen anything like this.

"I'm pretty certain this has never been done before.

"When he first e-mailed me I thought it must be a hoax.

"Bookmakers are never happy to give away money, but I was delighted for Jon to win."

Cheers! Cancer sufferer Jon Matthews beat the odds and picked up a nice little touch by betting on how long he would live

Rebecca Staden, fund-raising manager for Macmillan in Milton Keynes, said: "On behalf of Macmillan Cancer Support I want to say a huge thank you to Jon for his generosity, he has such a bubbly personality and positive outlook on life, I think he is fantastic and a huge inspiration to others."

Small businesses pay big prices

MILTON Keynes is the most expensive place to run a small business outside London.

High rental values, transport prices, labour costs and the cost of living have pushed the city to the top of a table compiled by bank Alliance and Leicester.

It beats Cambridge, Oxford and Guildford in terms of the price of locations, with rental space costing an average of £2,500 per square metre.

Another reason for its ranking is that, on average, Milton Keynes has the eighth highest weekly wage in the country, with its employees earning around £517 a week compared to the national average of £457.

The bank cites the 'desirability of this growing town' as the reason for high cost of living and house prices for both business owners and staff.

The survey, known as the business cost monitor, compared the operating costs for small to medium sized enterprises (SMEs) in towns and cities across the UK, excluding Greater London.

Steve Jennings, Director of Business Banking at Alliance & Leicester Commercial Bank, said: "The top ten locations all have thriving, successful business communities, which means SMEs must expect to pay a premium. "In fact Milton Keynes, our number one, has a target to double its population by 2025, which will provide huge opportunities for businesses in the area."

Neville Hulland, director of Airports Direct MK Ltd based in Stacey Bushes, said he was not surprised that the city is the most expensive place to run a business –though he feels the expense is worthwhile.

"Milton Keynes is a new town, and is growing all the time," he said.

"It doesn't matter what business you set up in MK, you are sure to make money. It is growing at such a rate that I would never move."

Hey! The Fonz stars as Hook

CHRISTMAS will be a lot cooler following the announcement that The Fonz will play Captain Hook in panto.

Henry Winkler, best known as The Fonz from Happy Days, was yesterday confirmed as the star attraction of Milton Keynes Theatre's magical pantomime Peter Pan.

The 62-year-old will don the infamous hook and black perm to take on Pan and the Lost Boys.

Henry said: "Being in panto equals joy, and playing Captain Hook gives me joy.

"How great to share this fantastic adventure with the audience in Milton Keynes."

The legendary TV and film actor became one of the first American stars to be cast in a British pantomime, by First Family Entertainment who produce the successful show at the theatre each year.

Milton Keynes Theatre's boss Elizabeth Adlington said "We're extremely privileged that such an iconic international star will be enjoying the family pantomime tradition here in Milton Keynes and I look forward to welcoming him to our theatre."

Starring alongside Henry will be comedian Andy Ford as Smee.

Peter Pan plays from December 5, 2008, to January 18, 2009,

Patients unimpressed by standard of care

Hospital one of worst in the country

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE

jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

PATIENTS rated Milton Keynes Hospital one of the worst trusts in the country.

Having collated the results of their annual inpatient survey, the Healthcare Commission gave Milton Keynes Hospital 73 out of 100 in terms of overall care, based on patients' feedback.

This leaves the foundation trust in the bottom 22 out of the 165 trusts surveyed.

Last month we published some of the results of the survey, which had more than 300 responses from people over the age of 16 staying in the hospital for one or more night before August 31, 2007.

In the Healthcare Commission's rating of the hospital it reveals that, while people gave the choice of food 80 out of 100, they only rated the food as 48 out of 100.

The hospital was given a score of 44 out of 100 in terms of whether staff told patients about side effects of the medicine they were taking.

Respondents also rated their confidence and trust in the nurses treating them as 85 out of 100, compared to 83 for trust in doctors.

The watchdog also gave the trust just nine points out of 100 based on people's response to the question of whether they were asked to give views on their quality of care.

A hospital spokesman said: "An action plan was put into place last year (the information for the survey was gathered last August), and we are already working to improve results, which includes working with patients, service users and the wider public through our Members' Council."

■ MORE than 90 per cent of people in MK are getting medical treatment within 18 weeks of being referred.

The city's Primary Care Trust has announced that it has hit the Government's waiting time targets nine months ahead of schedule.

This means that 94 per cent of patients are admitted to hospital within 18 weeks of referral by their GP, and 93 per cent not needing admission are treated within this period.

Hospital visit for exhausted dancer

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A MEMBER of Nemisis is recovering from exhaustion following competing on Britain's Got Talent.

Samantha Jenkins, from the Milton Keynes-based street dance crew, was taken to hospital in London on Monday.

She is now resting at home in Buckingham and will be rejoining the crew over the next couple of days to appear on the Britain's Got Talent tour.

The group reached the final of the national competition, aired to 14 million viewers on ITV on Saturday.

They had only 24 hours to get a routine together after competing in the semi-final the night before.

Two of the celebrity judges, Piers Morgan and Amanda Holden, failed to be impressed by their final performance but the crew won the approval of Simon Cowell: "You have an incredible attitude, you are very likeable," he said. "I think taking everything into account, one day to do this, you did terrific."

Nemisis: Exhausted Samantha Jenkins is far left

Despite this praise the crew failed to win the public vote, but group member T-Mac said they are pleased to have got so far in the competition.

"We thought the result was fair enough, we took the criticism positively," he said.

"It wasn't our best performance, but we actually finished it that morning. There was a lot of pressure."

He added that the competition has given the crew plenty of exposure and they are looking forward to performing in the live tour, which starts this Friday, June 6 at London's Hammersmith Apollo.

The tour will visit 13 cities across the country starring the winner, street dancer George Sampson, and all the finalists.

To book tickets for the tour, priced from £29.50 to £32.50, call 08700 11 26 26 or visit www.ticketzone.co.uk.

'Thunder Jim' arrested

To Hellier and back: 'Thunder Jim' is banged up in the police van

A SERIES of arrests were made yesterday morning, but not in the name of the law.

Special Needs Unit Gymnast (SNUG) charity has been offered 10 places to take part in the Paralympics in Leicestershire and needs to raise money to pay for equipment and transport.

The Quality Hotel & Suites Milton Keynes helped out yesterday by holding a 'Jail and Bail' event.

Two local off-duty police officers, dressed in uniform, drove around in their van 'arresting' locals including Horizon Radio presenter 'Thunder Jim' Hellier.

The suspects could only be released when they raised enough money to be bailed out. All the money raised was donated to SNUG.

SNUG is a registered charity providing weekly gymnastics training at Woughton campus for children and young people with physical, sensory and learning disabilities such as cerebral palsy, Asperger's and Down Syndrome.

Alfresco dining in and around Milton Keynes.

Whether a business lunch, a lazy Sunday afternoon or a special meal with friends and family, there is a multitude of restaurants and pubs in and around Milton Keynes where wonderful food in pleasant outside spaces are available to enjoy pleasant company and watch the world go by.

CAFÉ ROUGE
RESTAURANT BAR CAFÉ

It is impossible to think of France without imagining yourself at the quintessential Gallic Café enjoying the culinary charms that our friends over the channel have to offer.

The good news is that now you don't actually have to take that journey to recreate this kind of dinning experience.

Sit back and relax into breakfast, lunch or an evening meal and experience that 'je ne sais quoi' of French know how that makes Café Rouge such a popular choice. There is a great terrace which on a beautiful summer's day makes the perfect post work haven. Guests are also more than welcome to have a chilled glass of Sauvignon Blanc without the need to order food.

However if you are peckish, breakfast is a delight with the obligatory croissants and pain aux raison on the menu, however there are also some surprises with scrambled eggs and smoked salmon on toasted brioche. Of course for lunch and dinner the old French classics are ever-present, with onion soup, chicken liver terrine, mussels and whole baked camembert. You can then move on to smoked Toulouse sausages and warm potato salad, Dordogne duck Confit or beef Bourguignon before wrapping your meal up with one of the delightful desserts or a platters of delicious French cheeses.

If you fancy something lighter there is a myriad of salads to choose from, including goat's cheese, chicken and Roquefort, and classic Caesar, as well as a selection of sandwiches and quiches. One of the tastiest dishes from the snack selection is the traditional platter of chicken liver parfait, dry cured meats and Camembert d'Isigny served with olives, hummus and French bread,. Café Rouge also offers a great value three course Prix Fixe lunch menu for £9.95, and the children's menu also gives the little ones plenty to choose from with salmon fishcake, chicken strips in gravy with mash, and chicken baguette all served with a healthy choice of vegetables or salad, for £4.95 including a drink and dessert.

The Crown
AT STONY STRATFORD

The newly refurbished Crown in stony Stratford is already becoming known for a warm welcome, a great pint and fantastic food. Head Chef Stuart Leath's cooking has earned The Crown a reputation for having the best bites in the area.

You can find The Crown in the Market Square, a stone's throw from the High Street. Built in 1666, the building that was once the Crown Court later became an important coaching stop – in the Stables Dining Room (located at the rear of the restaurant), you can still see where coach drivers tethered their horses.

More recently, the restaurant was used as one of the locations for the cult British film Withnail & I. Our British & Commonwealth menu is winning praise and return visits from locals and visitors alike, while our snack menu is perfect for a lunch break or a quick bite with a pint of real ale or something from our fab wine list.

Food specials are always available, as well as regular themed menus like Fish Week and Caribbean Night. We also boast great weekly Sunday Roasts. We can even tailor a menu for you in one of our two function rooms, or either room can be hired as a venue for a meeting, a party or whatever you require.

We will also feature regular live music The Crown boasts two self-contained function facilities: Upstairs: A majestic first floor facility with its own bar and toilets. Light and airy in the daytime, perfect for meetings, presentations and all-day events. At night, it's perfect for parties, dances and live music. Call and let us help you custom-design your event. This room can accommodate up to 85 guests buffet style. Downstairs: A ground floor facility, looking out into the walled courtyard. This venue can be set for up to 30 guests.

To book one of these venues, please call and speak to a manager – remember, we're busy at lunch time, so if you call between noon and two, we may ask for your details so that we can call you back.

Man charged after motorway death of fork truck driver

Dead: Toby Cooke

A MAN has been charged with the murder of a Bletchley forklift truck driver.

Toby Cooke, 25, who worked at Redrow Construction in Bletchley, died after an incident on the M1 on Thursday, May 22.

Graham Cahill, 43, from Hawthorn Drive, Harrow, has been charged with his murder.

He appeared at Luton Magistrates' Court on Thursday when an application for bail was refused.

He will appear at Luton Crown Court on Friday, June 13.

The family of Mr Cooke, who lived in Cutenhoe Road, Luton, described him as a spirited young man who was adored by his nieces and nephews and regularly visited his grandmother.

They said he was enjoying work in Bletchley but was studying for an electrical installation qualification at Barnfield College.

David Livingstone, managing director of Redrow Homes in this region, said: "Toby's untimely death is very tragic and our thoughts are with his family and friends.

"Although he had only been directly employed by Redrow for a couple of months, he had worked with us previously on a temporary basis and had become a valuable and popular member of the team.

"He will be very sadly missed."

The family added that Mr Cooke and his girlfriend Carly were looking forward to a trip to Ghana building orphanages and a children's hospital for charity.

They said: "We know his friends, of which Toby had many, remember Toby as we do: a strong, independent young man who was just beginning his adult life and had just started to figure out what he wanted to do with it.

"Toby is irreplaceable and will be missed terribly."

Hospital trust reviews care of mother after '49 days of misery'

A WOMAN from Stony Stratford has given the NHS a diary detailing '49 days of misery' before her mother's death, and has called for improvements in caring for the elderly.

Joan Dorling, 83, from Potterspury, Northamptonshire was admitted to a specialist NHS hospital ward at Princess Marina Hospital, in Northampton, for treatment in April after she was told she had dementia.

But her daughter, Linda Clark from Ousebank Way, Stony Stratford, claimed she and her friend, Dick Skellington, witnessed a catalogue of poor care leading up to a fall in which she suffered a broken neck, an injury which was not spotted for six days.

Although in reasonable physical health on being admitted, she died 49 days after she entered the hospital and Mrs Clark said she had serious misgivings about the care her mother received in that time.

"When I walked in there I had doubts and worries and it was a downhill spiral after that," she said.

"Everything was locked, even mum's room when she was in there, and they had no access to their personal things.

"My mum had been very happy at the respite care home she had come from and I assumed it was going to be the same. But it was like something from the dark ages."

Mr Skellington said he kept a diary of Mrs Dorling's care.

He said they repeatedly found Mrs Dorling, who was profoundly deaf, without her hearing aids and her glasses, which were often locked in a cupboard.

According to the diary, she also had her walking stick confiscated because she would sometimes wave it at staff and she subsequently developed bed sores because she could not walk without it.

Linda Clark: Unhappy with her mother's health care

They also recorded her dishevelled appearance and had to take her a drink after discovering water was also locked away.

On the 36th day of her stay, during which time Mrs Clark tried to get her into a care home, Mrs Dorling fell in her bedroom and was taken to Northampton General Hospital (NGH).

Doctors, who were looking for a head injury, failed to spot a cervical spine fracture and Mrs Dorling was sent back to Princess Marina.

She was eventually re-admitted six days later when a fracture was diagnosed and she was treated. She died five days later.

Mrs Clark has now sent copies of the diary to Northamptonshire Healthcare NHS Trust, which runs Princess Marina Hospital, and NGH and has made a formal complaint to both trusts.

Mrs Clark said she felt like Princess Marina treated her mother like she was a naughty child instead of an old woman with dementia.

A spokesman for Northamptonshire Healthcare NHS Trust said: "The trust expresses its sincere condolences to the family of Mrs Joan Dorling.

"The trust takes her family's complaint extremely seriously and is currently carrying out a thorough review of Mrs Dorling's care. Any lessons we can learn from this case that can help us to improve our services will be invaluable.

"In the meantime, we are liaising closely with the family and will be discussing the findings of our review with them."

Lottery answers Olney bells appeal

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

THE peal of bells will ring across Olney once more as more than £35,000 has been given to a restoration project.

The scheme to re-hang the bells at slavery abolitionist John Newton's church has been awarded a grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF).

The £35,500 award is a major boost to the Olney Bells Appeal that was launched last October.

The project, at the Church of St Peter and St Paul, will involve the replacement of a deteriorating wooden bell frame in the Grade One listed church and retuning and rehanging the eight bells.

There were also be community activities to bring the history of the bells and the church to a wider audience and training opportunities aimed at providing a supply of new ringers to continue the heritage of English-style bell ringing.

The church is also funding the addition of two new treble bells at the same time.

A multi-media archive will be created to document the project and, once completed,this will become part of the history archive of the Cowper and Newton Museum.

The Church of St Peter and St Paul has a large congregation and welcomes a significant number of tourists each year.

It was where slave trader turned abolitionist John Newton, author of the hymn Amazing Grace, served as curate from 1764 to 1779.

New historical information will be placed in the church and cameras will be installed in the tower linked to monitors in the church to enable visitors to see the bells while they are being rung.

Fly away: The bells at the Church of St Peter and St Paul

Project manager David Phillipson said: "We are delighted that the Heritage Lottery Fund has enabled this work to take place with this very significant grant. Working with the HLF in partnership has been a refreshing experience and their professional approach and guidance has helped to develop the overall project into one which will deliver genuine improvements in access to heritage for generations to come."

Conmen stealing cars for scrap

THE council is warning car owners to be aware of conmen who are stealing old cars for scrap metal.

A group of thieves are stealing old cars in broad daylight and claiming to be from the council when challenged. On one occasion they claimed to be from the DVLA and even persuaded the owner to hand over the vehicle documents.

Over the past few weeks the city's Safer Communities Unit (SCU) has received increasing numbers of reports of people having their vehicles taken away without permission, where they either appear to be abandoned, or haven't been used in some time.

In some cases these vehicles will have already been issued with a notice for legitimate removal by the council.

However, the people in question are not officially sanctioned, are operating illegally, and are suspected to be netting themselves hundreds of pounds.

SCU manager Pete Roberts said: "These people are clearly targeting old vehicles where they are less likely to be challenged. The value of scrap metal has rocketed recently, compared with what was being paid a few years ago, so it is clearly a lucrative 'business' for some unscrupulous people.

"The council has an official contractor, Redcorn, to remove all vehicles on its behalf."

Fun to be had this summer.

Victor

Victor is Italian, 7 years old and of average height and weight for his age. He is a happy child with a good sense of humour and has a caring and considerate nature. Whilst he likes sports and riding his bike, he also enjoys painting and drawing. He can be stubborn and needs firm and consistent boundaries, but responds well to praise.

Vicky

An active 10 year old Victor's sister, Vicky, is lively and outgoing with a good sense of humour and a taste for fashion. She is friendly and helpful with a good circle of friends. She tends to keep to herself and can be argumentative. She needs firm boundaries and consistent support. In addition to English, she also speaks Italian.

Foster Carers needed to accept both children, meet their Italian cultural needs and ensure the children stay in touch with their parents and siblings.

Joust a minute: Knights from The Horses Impossible Medieval Show are star attraction at Rickley Park

Day turns to knights at Bletchley carnival

CARNIVAL time is almost upon us.

West Bletchley Carnival is back on Saturday, and now in its seventh year.

This year's theme takes us back to medieval times so expect lots of jesters, knights in shining armour and damsels in distress.

It was a time of kings and their knights and the mythical Robin Hood and his merry band of men.

The star attraction in the main arena this year will be The Horses Impossible Medieval Show. In full period costume they will be demonstrating the amazing fighting skills of the knights of the period.

Listen to the thunder of horse's hooves, certainly adding to the drama. Watch as the mounted knights' challenge each other with lances. Can Odious the Black Knight defeat the Earl of Warwick?

Also entertaining in the main arena and continuing the theme will be the spectacular Knights of the Crusades followed by Dingle Fingle and the Clowntown Watch.

This year the carnival is going back to its roots with the parade starting from its original Melrose Avenue home.

Starting at 1pm, the glittering parade of brightly decorated floats, dancers, street artists, music (including a steel band) and walkers will again amaze onlookers as it snakes its way up Whaddon Way to the main event at Rickley Park.

School children from West Bletchley Schools have been working with carnival arts company Festive Road creating medieval costumes for the carnival.

The children of Thomas Aquinas School have made jesters costumes with heraldic shields. The parade will be filled with lords and ladies a leaping, roaring dragons, grimacing gargoyles, jousting knights and dancing minstrels.

Artist Julia Roach said: "We are looking forward to seeing the children in their costumes at the carnival it will be an exciting and fun packed day".

The dance tent will this year be transformed, courtesy of Horizon Radio.

The thrill seekers among us will enjoy the fairground and the obligatory bouncy castles.

Liquid refreshments will be available in the bar area and food vendors will be on hand to provide a wide variety of nourishment from around the globe.

JP Jazz will be on hand to entertain the more discerning customer in the tea tent and, of course roving entertainers will be delighting the young and the old.

Once again this will be a FREE event for the local community.

The chosen charity for 2008 is the Thames and Chiltern Air Ambulance.

Many local groups will be running stalls to raise much needed funds for a wide variety of worthy charities.

No butts has got to be better

SMOKING can be bad for your financial health is the message behind a campaign to tidy up smoking-related litter and other rubbish from the grounds around Milton Keynes Hospital.

Milton Keynes Council Safer Communities Unit (MKC) will be working with the Primary Care Trust (PCT) to clamp down in particular on cigarette butts and match ends left scattered around the hospital grounds.

Council enforcement officers will be targeting the hospital grounds and any person found dropping litter will be issued with a £75 fixed penalty notice.

Bob Heavisides, director of facilities at Milton Keynes Hospital, said: "Following complaints regarding litter around the site, council staff will be out and about around the grounds targeting anyone dropping rubbish or smoking-related litter, instead of using a bin.

"Cigarette ends left on the ground present an unprofessional image and make the hospital look unclean."

Pete Roberts MKC manager, said: "The hospital campaign is just part of our approach to clean up the city which includes smoking related litter and make people more aware that we will take action if people cannot dispose of their rubbish responsibly."

> Cigarette ends left on the ground present an unprofessional image and make the hospital look unclean – Bob Heavisides,MK Hospital facilities boss

City builders cease trading

A CITY construction group has been forced to cease trading by the downturn in the property market.

Construction and project management group Avebury International Plc has confirmed that significant downturns in its core activities over recent months have led it to appoint administrators.

The company, based in Midsummer Boulevard, says the future of its 55 employees is uncertain and redundancies are likely.

Joint administrator, Steve Wood from Mazars LLP in Birmingham, said: "The current uncertain economic outlook in the construction industry has been absolutely catastrophic for Avebury.

"Contracts with value in excess of £60 million have been cancelled or delayed in the last four months leaving the group with no option but to cease trading.

"Whilst discussions are ongoing for the sale of certain small parts of the group I am pessimistic about the outlook for the majority of the group's 55 employees.

"Significant redundancies are likely in the immediate future."

Caring for carers

'Pampering Day' highlights support and services that are available to carers in the city

CARERS in Milton Keynes are to be pampered for the day.

Carers Milton Keynes is supporting this year's Carers Week, 'Carers can't afford to be ill', from June 9-15, by organising a 'Pampering Day for Carers'.

The event which takes place on Friday at their offices at North Seventh Street.

Carers Week supports and raises awareness of the role of the UK's six million carers – people who look after a loved one who is either ill, frail or disabled.

The 'Pampering Day' is one of many events taking place to help highlight the support and services that are available to carers, regardless of their age or background.

Hilda Kirkwood from Carers Milton Keynes said: "We aim to provide an opportunity for local carers to come together and share experiences and advice – especially if they have ever experienced health problems as a result of their caring responsibilities.

"Most importantly, we want to make carers in Milton Keynes aware of the support and services that are available locally and ensure they know they never have to suffer in silence."

Carers Week is a partnership of 10 UK-wide charities working together: Carers UK, Counsel and Care, Crossroads Caring for Carers, Help the Hospices, Independent Age, Macmillan Cancer Support, MS Society, Neurological Alliance, The Princess Royal Trust for Carers and WRVS.

■ For more information about Carers Week and the support and services available for all those who care for a loved one, please visit www.carersweek.org

Affordable homes among 240 to be built

AN environmentally-friendly development of 240 homes and apartments is set to go ahead at Oxley Park.

Milton Keynes Partnership has announced that Taylor Wimpey will build sites two and three of the development, which will include 72 affordable homes managed by Chiltern Hundreds Housing Association.

MD of George Wimpey South Midlands, Peter Gurr, said: "We're delighted to continue our high quality work at Oxley Park, where our Oxley Woods development is proving extremely popular."

Work is expected to start on site this summer and it is anticipated that the first housing completions will be in 2009.

All of the homes will comply with the EcoHomes Excellent rating and include solar lanterns and solar panels, grey water recycling and energy efficient 'A' rated white goods.

Superstore gives anti-crime team digital cameras

CENTRAL Bletchley and Industry Neighbourhood Team have received six digital cameras donated by Tesco.

The cameras were donated by the supermarket to help the local neighbourhood team tackle and reduce crime.

Neighbourhood Specialist Officer, PC Isen Wharton, said: "The digital cameras donated by Tesco will enable us to be more efficient in dealing with our community's priorities.

"We often have to gather photographic evidence about all sorts of issues which affect our community such as graffiti, rubbish and parking problems.

"This donation allows the team to have the cameras available immediately and will allow them to spend more time on the streets."

Jobless kids get to be film makers

UNEMPLOYED young people in New Bradwell and Bradville are being asked to make a film about life in Milton Keynes.

The council and Living Archive organisation, which aims to capture the heritage of the new city, is asking 18 to 24-year-olds to take part in the event.

New Bradwell is one of the oldest parts of Milton Keynes and this month is celebrating 150 years since it was formed during the reign of Queen Victoria.

Films made by youngsters will add to the heritage already amassed by the Living Archive over the past 24 years - including musical documentary plays, books of local reminiscence, photographic exhibitions, sculpture events and community textile projects.

Tina Strutton, employment support officer for Milton Keynes Council, said: "This is a great opportunity for young people to get involved in an exciting project that in years to come could make a meaningful contribution to the local history of Milton Keynes.

"It should also help motivate youngsters who perhaps are feeling a little low and need something to lift their confidence so they can then promote themselves better to prospective employers."

Anyone who is interested in taking part can go along tomorrow, June 5, to New Bradville community offices at 5pm.

■ For further information contact Tina Strutton on 01908 253698.

Celebrities turn out to view Sex and the City

CELEBRITIES including The Cheeky Girls and Vanessa Feltz were in Milton Keynes last week for a charity screening of Sex and the City.

The stars walked the pink carpet laid down at the front of Xscape, Central Milton Keynes for the event on Wednesday May 28.

Organised by Style Magazine the film showing raised £5,500 for Breast Cancer Care.

Vanessa Feltz turned up with her husband, Phats and Small front-man Ben Ofoedu.

They were joined by socialite Bianca Gascoigne, Strictly Come Dancing's Camilla Dallerup and, from Shipwrecked, Naomi Millbank-Smith and Jack Collins.

Guests were invited to gather for a pink champagne reception in the New York themed centre mall and, to have their picture taken with Xscape's hunky New York cops, who kept law and order (with their shirts off) in a gold stretch Lincoln.

On-line grid road petition nears 5k

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

NEARLY 5,000 people have signed an on-line petition to save Milton Keynes' grid roads.

As reported in MK NEWS last June the petition, on the Prime Minister's website, called for the Government to 'ensure Milton Keynes' design is preserved, and extended into the new Western Expansion Area'.

It was set up by John Hawthorn, chairman of Bradwell Abbey Parish Council, who wants to preserve the uniqueness of Milton Keynes, including its greenery, grid roads and redways.

The petiton stated: 'Eighty six per cent of Milton Keynes residents like living in the city; with a figure of 30 to 40 per cent for other UK cities. The factors that make our city unique are the factors that lead to this high level of satisfaction'.

By the closing date on Friday, 4,870 had signed the petition.

Mr Hawthorn said: "I am disappointed that the total is not higher, but I still meet people who do not know about the petition.

"I have been arguing for the grid roads in the WEA since 2004 and will continue to do so as I still believe that a lack of these will endanger pedestrians, including children, as well as leading to more atmospheric pollution, due to cars being slower which consumes more fuel, producing more fumes."

New base for Prince's Trust programmes

A YOUTH project which gets young people working in the community has a new base at Bletchley Park.

The Princes Trust 12-week personal development programme for 16 to 25-year-olds covers a wide range of skills from team work and communication to letter writing and project management.

The programme requires the volunteers to complete a community project and Bletchley Park's first team has chosen to design and redecorate the Sport Youth Cafe located at the Point.

Last week the team painted inspirational and motivational quotes on the walls and designed a logo.

If you are interested in getting involved in the next team, starting on August 11, call Kate Greer, on 07903772276.

Staff on track as stars rock Daytona

ROCK stars from Whitesnake and Thin Lizzy were in Milton Keynes last week jamming for audiences at Daytona.

Marco Mendoza, Tommy Aldridge and Soren Anderson were flown in by Yamaha to entertain 60 members of their staff at the karting track.

The staff came from all over Europe and as far away as Japan to enjoy an exclusive live set from the stars. Marco Mendoza on bass has played with the likes of Whitesnake and Thin Lizzy, Tommy Aldridge on drums is well known for his stints with Ozzy Osbourne and Whitesnake and Soren Andersen on lead guitar is an up and coming performer from Denmark.

Yamaha staff also experienced an evening of karting on the track.

Daytona general manager Mike Scudamore said: "We have made certain that the Pavilion at Daytona really is the most flexible and unique local venue for everything from†a conference to an exclusive live band set.

"We are delighted that Yamaha, another local business, teamed up with us to wow their international visitors."

Paws for thought as pets seek new homes

IF you are considering getting a new pet, now is the perfect time as the RSPCA gears up for one of its busiest re-homing weeks of the year.

The animal charity is looking for would-be adopters during Pet Adoption Week (PAW) to choose their new furry companion from the scores of abandoned or ill-treated animals under its care.

The Milton Keynes and North Bucks RSPCA is holding late-night open evenings on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday during PAW, which runs from Saturday, June 7 to Sunday, June 15.

Bookings must be made in advance and would-be animal adopters should be prepared for a home visit from the charity.

Vivienne Dalton, RSPCA Cattery co-ordinator, said: "Many of the animals that come into our care have had a rough time.

"By adopting either a cat or rabbit from us, not only would you be giving it a new home - you will be giving it a new life.

Drivers feel force of drink campaign

Forty out of 100 motorists stopped in a two-hour drink-drive blitz fined or warned for other offences

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

Early warning: Drivers tested at launch of summer drink drive campaign

ONE hundred motorists were stopped by police as part of a drink-drive check

The operation, which took place on Grafton Gate between 6pm and 8pm on Friday coincided with the launch of Thames Valley Police's annual summer drink drive campaign on Sunday.

All drivers seen committing a 'moving traffic offence', such as speeding or not wearing a seatbelt, were stopped and breathalysed.

Of the 100 drivers stopped, 15 were given Fixed Penalty Notices (FPN) of £30 for not wearing a seatbelt, three were given £60 and three penalty points for using a mobile phone while driving, 17 were warned and five were given a FPN for speeding .

Another 18 drivers were stopped for offences including defective tyres and excessively tinted windows.

PC John Bulman, road safety officer for Milton Keynes, said: "Every driver stopped was breathalysed with the new Alcotest roadside device and it was pleasing that not one was over the limit.

"By talking to passers-by and stopping drivers we are getting the message across that if you drink and drive you face harsh penalties and are putting your own and others' lives at risk."

Unpacking packaging campaign

CITY supermarkets sent a campaigner packing when she suggested a way to streamline their packaging.

Jill Hope, Liberal Democrat parliamentary candidate for Milton Keynes North, approached local stores of Asda, Morrisons, Tesco and Sainsbury's in the hope that they would provide unpacking tables.

She is one of an increasing number of people who removes unwanted packaging from goods after buying them, as is commonplace in Germany, though a proper area is needed for this.

The rationale is that the consumer is not lumbered with plastic and cardboard to recycle, and that the shop can analyse what is left in order to inform the manufacturers how to streamline their packaging.

However, despite this week being National Recycling Week, not one of the city stores said they would provide the facility.

Ms Hope said she is not deterred in her campaign by the supermarkets' reluctance.

She said: "The point is that more and more people are starting to do this, but it needs a lot of people doing it to make an impact. People wonder why they should carry all that packaging home with them.

"Cling film and shrink wrapped jacket potatoes – what's that all about?"

Play cricket with celebs and sporting legends

THE world's number one charity cricket team, Bunbury Cricket Club, are set to play an Eddie Jordan XI at Stowe School on July, 5.

Stars of sport, music, stage and screen will enter into battle with weapons of willow and leather in aid of CLIC Sargent and the English Schools Cricket Association.

MK NEWS and Event Vision Group are offering one lucky person a chance to win a place in Eddie Jordan's XI, captained by former England player Allan Lamb, to play alongside the likes of Ian Wright, Phil Tufnell, Darren Gough, Martin Johnson, Sam Fox and Eric Clapton.

Lining up against the star studded side will be Dr David English, the man who set up the Bunbury Cricket Club.

English, who will skipper his team on the day, founded the charity project in 1987 and has enjoyed many achievements over the past 21 years, including raising £10m for national and international charities such as NSPCC, Mencap and the Tsunami Disaster Appeal.

After a full day of cricket guests and players will be asked to adorn their finest attire and head across to the Grand Prix Ball set on the lawns of 300-year-old Stowe House.

Guests will enjoy free-flowing champagne, a gourmet four-course dinner and a glittering after-show party.

The evening's live entertainment will be provided by legendary World Music Award winner George Benson and other top-name entertainers.

There will also be an auction - all proceeds from the day and night will be spilt between the two charities.

Gates open at 9.30am with play commencing at 11.00 at Stowe School.

The game is open to the public to watch. A great day out for all the family costs just £10 per person for general admission; children under 12 enter for free.

All white on the night

Health and beauty store Superdrug has launched a high street dental service offering cosmetic and cleaning treatments to help give you the perfect smile. Reporter Laura Hannam tried out their in-surgery power whitening

MY only concern about having my teeth whitened was the risk of ending up like Ross in the episode of American comedy Friends, where he leaves the peroxide gel on and ends up with a ridiculously luminous grin.

But Dr Simon Gallier, managing director of the Smile Store, reassured me that the treatment was not about producing a cheesy Hollywood-style smile.

"We are not trying to do that all-American ivory thing, its about when you smile people think you have got nice teeth," he said.

"If you want Dulux white you have got to create that with Porcelain, so you are going to have to physically damage the teeth to do that.

"This is the natural way, you are not harming them."

The Smile Store, which currently has outlets in three Superdrug stores including Midsummer Arcade in thecentre:mk, offers dental services such as stain removal and cosmetic cleaning, in-surgery or at home whitening and in June will also be offering facial line and wrinkle smoothing (Botox).

I tried out their in-surgery power whitening, which is a £350 package including a consultation, monitoring, in-chair treatment, home trays and gels and review visits.

Dr Gallier started by using an electronic device to scientifically measure the colour of my teeth.

He said my teeth were average for a 23-year-old and the aim is to take them back a few years and keep them there.

He used a mould to take impressions of my teeth to make gum-shield-like trays for me to carry on with home maintenance after the in-store treatment.

A plastic clamp was then put into my mouth to keep my lips back, which was surprisingly comfortable though made me look like a character out of the film Face/Off.

Dr Gallier isolated my teeth and gums and applied the first of four rounds of peroxide gel, which were each left on for ten minutes and activated with a blue LED light.

The gel works in two ways, both penetrating microscopically into the surface of the tooth and disturbing any stains and, making the enamel less transparent so that light bounces off the white surface hiding the yellow material within.

Once the final round of gel was washed off Dr Gallier tested the colour of my teeth again to see how much the colour had improved.

The next step is to carry on the treatment at home using the specially made trays, which are sent through the post.

For the next month I must treat my teeth once a week, with two 20 minute sessions that day.

The final colour should then have been reached and I will come back in for a review.

The package provides enough gel for me to carry on maintaining the colour for three months by treating my teeth once a month.

It then costs £45 to buy a tube of gel which will last a year if used once a month and, you are given free reviews for your lifetime allowing you to monitor how white your teeth are.

Dr Gallier, who has been a dentist for 25 years and launched Smile Store seven months ago, said his mission was to bring hygiene, whitening and other similar treatments to the high street and make them more accessible.

"We all want to look slightly younger than we are and teeth and good skin care are part of that," he said.

"We are trying to introduce a small basket of treatments to the mass market which, put together, should help you look better, feel better about yourself and know that you are actually maintaining some health."

He added that he aims to attract the 50 percent of the population who do not go to the dentist on a regular basis.

Although the store does not offer all of the services provided by a dental practice, such as x-ray facilities, it offers cosmetic cleaning and free, impartial advice on any dental health or hygiene, whitening or facial aesthetic matter.

"We have attracted people in that haven't seen a dentist for 20 odd years," he said.

"We have actually had two people here in Milton Keynes who have never seen a dentist.

"In a way you are taking that barrier down."

Other Smile Stores are currently in Kensington High Street, London and Brighton.

Another will be opening in Guildford in July and a further five should be open by the end of the year.

Dr Gallier eventually hopes to expand the service to 200 of the 900 Superdrug stores nationwide.

At the Milton Keynes store the facilities are to be extended in June, providing a reception desk and waiting area.

Summer camps for schoolkids – super!

WITH a couple of months to go until the summer holidays begin parents may already be worrying about how to entertain their children during this year's summer holidays.

However, help is at hand as one of the largest providers of children's activity holidays in the UK, Super Camps, confirms it will be running activity day camps in Akeley Wood Junior School and Bury Lawn School in the city.

Parents can avoid trying to juggle the responsibilities of home life with work and enrol their children into Super Camps where they can enjoy plenty of outdoor activities and play with children of a similar age. Working parents in particular need to plan ahead to manage their child care and ensure that their child's summer fun isn't sacrificed.

Katie McIntosh, Super Camps' Regional Manager said: "As a parent, the thought of packing the whole of the summer holiday with entertainment and fun can be an extremely daunting task.

"Together with working full-time, the prospect of summer can seem stressful and far from enjoyable."

Super Camps offer children, aged between four and 14, the opportunity to take part in activities that combine sport, arts and play for as long as the whole holiday or as little as one day.

Having a splashing time: Outdoor activities and play with other children

A day camp costs around £30.

Ben Prior, Super Camps' managing director says: "We recognise how difficult it can be for parents to try and manage childcare and we acknowledge that most of the time parents feel guilty juggling their work commitments throughout the holidays. We aim to minimise that guilt by offering fun-fuelled holidays."

Super Camps' activities include swimming, karting, trampolining, cooking and art. The interaction with other children can also enhance their development skills.

MUSIC REVIEWS

ALWAYS RIGHT BEHIND YOU
Zutons

THE phrase 'best Zutons single ever' surely must rank up there with 'most convenient limb to lose in the event of an accident', at least it does in my book.

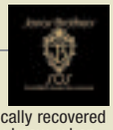
I'll be honest with you, I'm not a fan, and my dislike of their music has only been intensified recently.

Not only did Mark Ronson churn out a cover of Valerie (which is nowhere near their best song), but the Great British public then went out and bought it in their thousands.

It's things like that that make this song all the more frustrating. You see, it's actually rather good and not only that, it really is the best single they've ever released.

It's three and a bit minutes of knockabout glam rock-influenced fun and games, and if this had been around in 1972 it would've kicked Slade and T. Rex all over the park. However, that's where the problem lies.

It's not Valerie. It doesn't even sound like Valerie. It doesn't even sound like the band that recorded Valerie. Even worse, Amy Winehouse doesn't sing on it. They don't stand a chance.



S O S
Jonas Brothers

So, this is what mechanically recovered pop music sounds like. You know, when all the good ideas have already been filleted and all that's left are the giblets.

If I was still at school, and therefore well within the Jonas Brothers' target audience, two thoughts would immediately spring to mind. Firstly, I'd be wondering why I was still at school when I was supposed to finish in 1990, and secondly I'd actually feel insulted that a song as bland as this was being directed towards my age group.

This is entry-level pop music, nothing more, with zero in the way of long-term appeal and certainly not the sort of song I can imagine you'd be telling your friends you'd just downloaded.

It's such a non-event you have to wonder where the market is for this sort of thing.

THE RIP
Portishead

Ah, now here we've got a proper song. Portishead's new album is a rather bleak affair in places, but when the songs are as good as this who cares?

Personally, I'm rather hoping they release Silence and/or We Carry On as singles too, but this will do very nicely thank you.

For two minutes, it's very quiet and sedate – you've got a singer going on about white horses taking her away and a couple of guitars strumming away gently in the background, which sounds boring, doesn't it?

But once we get past the opening couple of minutes, all sorts of things happen.

The song stays exactly the same, but it's played very differently. The guitars are chucked into the bin and the tune's driven instead by a handful of keyboard stroke synthesizer things that sound as though they're older than the people playing them, and even though this is the point where the beat kicks in, it's not used as an excuse to speed things up and go wild.

Like I said, the tune doesn't change one bit, it's purely down to the instruments that are playing it.

If there are courses in how to put together a tune properly, this really ought to be required listening. Of course, it also helps that it's a decent song.

West Bletchley Carnival

WEST BLETCHLEY CARNIVAL WORKING FOR YOU

Saturday 7th June 2008 - 1pm to 6pm

See the full programme of events on reverse!

Now in it's seventh year, the West Bletchley Carnival has a "medieval" theme for 2008.

This year's event will be held on Saturday 7th June. There are two elements to the Carnival. Firstly, the parade, which will set off from Melrose Avenue at 1pm.
There are approximately 30 floats and walking entries anticipated, representing local schools and community groups. There will also be some professional artistes to entertain the crowds "en route". It is incredible the amount of time and effort that goes into making the costumes and floats for the parade and we just hope that all of the "paraders" have some fine weather to show off their work.

The second element is the entertainment that takes place on Rickley Park, which will start officially at 2pm. Following the medieval theme, there will be jousting displays on horseback with Horses Impossible as well as demonstrations of hand fighting by the Spectacular Knights of the Crusades, probably over some poor damsel in distress!! The Poor Knights of St Chad will have a static display of "medieval husbandry".
Dingle Fingle and the Clown Town Watch makes a welcome return, maybe even in medieval costume.

Some 60 stalls, selling items that you cannot buy in the Retail Park, as well as tombola and competitions will keep the crowds busy in between the arena acts.

Local dance and singing groups will entertain dads and children throughout the afternoon in the Dance Tent, while mum is in the food court and beer tent. Fairground rides for young and complete a total entertainment package.

The Carnival, which is planned and organised by West Bletchley Council, is a non-profit making charitable event, where surplus proceeds are donated to charity. This year's charity is the Thames Valley and Chiltern Air Ambulance.
So why not bring the family, have some fun and support a very worthwhile cause. Oh, by the way, entrance to the event is FREE.

Please be aware that car parking is very limited in the area. If you can possibly travel by public transport, we would strongly advise you to do so.

GARDENLIFE

WE may be hoping for sunny dry weather but the past few weeks have seen our gardens drown.

Rather than fight nature any further I thought this month we would look at the differing types of water plants and where to use them.

Plants help to soften the edges of a pond, they use up the nitrates that would turn the water green and can provide somewhere for fish to hide and breed.

The best time to plant is between March and August so they can get established before the winter.

MARGINAL PLANTS

MARGINAL plants grow in shallow areas near the edge of the pond, they are easy to grow and require very little maintenance. For an instant effect, group them close together and as they become established you can divide them up and spread them around your pond. Whether you're adding new plants or dividing existing plants it's best to use aquatic planters. These are designed to let water flow through them while retaining the soil. It also makes lifting easy. (These planters can be used for planting bulbs, but that's a different story!)

Top marginal plants

- Acorus Caltha - excellent for early colour
- Houttuynia - beautiful foliage and white flowers
- Lobelia - beautiful red foliage
- Iris Laevigata - stunning, ideal for shallow water
- Iris Pseudoacorus - beautiful yellow flowers

WATER LILIES AND DEEP WATER PLANTS

WATER lilies are still classed as the ultimate pond plant.

They have beautifully shaped flowers in exquisite colours and their leaves are a vibrant green.

You should aim to cover around one-third of the pond's water surface as the leaves provide shade helping to reduce algae.

The Pygmaea varieties (small) are ideal for small ponds and features with their tiny leaves and delicate flowers.

Initially plant them so that any existing leaves float on the water surface.

Stand their basket or pot on an upturned bucket or bricks if necessary.

As the plant grows gradually lower the lily into deeper water by removing some of the supports. Lilies do not really like running water so keep them away from pumps.

Other deepwater plants include Water Hawthorn, which flowers in the spring and autumn making it a perfect partner for lilies.

FLOATING PLANTS AND OXYGENATORS

OXYGENATORS are considered one of the most important groups of plants in the pond.

Like all plants they give out oxygen during the day and use it up at night.

Their primary benefit in a pond is their ability to grow rapidly, using nutrients that would otherwise be used by algae such as blanketweed.

An occasional thinning will maintain good healthy balance.

SOAK up some early summer glory in the English countryside in Adstock.

This a pretty village of around 100 houses, many thatched, in a conservation area just 20 minutes from the city centre on the A421 to Buckingham.

Gardens open 2-5pm each day.

TASTELIFE

SILK ROAD

151 Grafton Gate East, Central Milton Keynes
01908 200522
Review by Rob Gibson

WHEN I discovered that this restaurant serves Indian, Chinese and Thai dishes I knew it had already scored points with me and my partner.

While new restaurants and bars at the Hub continue to draw the crowds, the nearby Silk Road has something else to offer diners.

The manager tells me it is the only restaurant to offer all three of the Eastern favourites.

When I opened the menu I realised I was going to struggle to choose between the countries.

At least the oriental sharing platter (£8.95) pleased us both for starters, with crispy spring rolls, sesame toast, delicious BBQ wings, seaweeds and juicy chicken satay.

Thanks to its location slightly out of town, the restaurant has enough space so that you are not shoulder to shoulder with the guests at the next table.

Silk Road oozes intimacy without making you feel suffocated, accentuated as we were seated in a candle lit alcove.

There is a generous waiting area and bar at the entrance and plenty of waiters are on duty this Friday night.

My partner opted for a Thai yellow curry with king prawns (£8.95) and egg fried rice (£2.95).

I was torn between a lamb shank massaman – one of the specialities from the 'fusion' list – or a classic Indian dish.

I eventually decided I was in the mood for an Indian curry and plumped for the Murgh Makhni (£8.95), with Kesar Palif rice (£2.25).

Mine was a tangy number with large slices of tandoor grilled tikka of chicken simmered in a satin smooth massala-type sauce.

The Thai yellow curry included plenty of king prawns and crispy vegetables.

A very fresh peshwari naan (£1.95) helped to mop up the sauce and we washed it all down with Indian and Mexican beer (small Kingfisher - £2.50, Corona - £2.75).

The dessert menu looked surprisingly decent but my stomach was full and our smiles told the manager his food had more than satisfied.

It is easy to see why business is going well at Silk Road – it really is a restaurant that caters for all tastes. Why argue about whether it's to be Chinese, Indian or Thai when you can have all ways?

Recruitment firm goes global

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A FINANCIAL recruitment company set up by a teenager 15 years ago has gone global.

SGL Solutions Ltd, based on High Street, Stony Stratford was founded by Lewis Greene in March 2003 when he was only 18-years-old.

Now the financial services specialist recruitment firm has launched an offshore financial services division specialising in providing client companies with the best advisers and consultants for the Middle East.

The company recruits for clients including financial planners and mortgage brokers.

Mr Greene, who lives in Alford Place, Bletchley Park, said he decided to take this step due to the recent credit crunch, which has caused the UK mortgage market to take a knock making mortgage advisers very disillusioned: "Our business has been built from the ground up to a position where we are currently sourcing multiple candidates every month for a variety of clients across the UK, Europe and now the Middle and Far East," he said.

"We regard each of our clients and each of our candidates as individuals. "We take time to hear what the client wants so we can deliver a tailored service to them by providing the candidate they need to fill the post and bring added value to the company. For candidates too we take an individual approach. We see where they are, what experience they have and where they aspire to be."

A blueprint for the future

A CITY eco home development has won an award for sustainable construction.

Oxley Woods, a Rogers Stirk Harbour and Partners project, has been crowned winner in the sustainability category at the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS) South East Awards.

The ceremony celebrated high quality projects from across the South East.

The Oxley Wood project consists of 145 dwellings providing a mixture of affordable housing and larger private dwellings around a central high street, designed as high quality homes for a construction cost of £60k and built to a number of quality standards including 'Eco Homes' and 'Building for Life'.

Paul Vale, one of the RICS judges, said: "Oxley Woods housing project demonstrates that affordable housing could be developed with an inbuilt high standard of sustainability. The scheme achieved adaptability to enable each building's sustainability credential to be enhanced.

"Versatility to enable the house layout to be changed to suit occupiers' individual requirements and affordability. The lessons learnt in this project would be easily usable by other housing developments in the future."

The Oxley Woods project will now go forward to the RICS international final, later in the year.

Solicitors up for website award

TOLLERS Solicitors has been nominated for the best recruiter award by a national website.

The firm, based in Medina House, Central Milton Keynes, has been nominated in this year's LawCareers.net Training and Recruitment Awards, in the category for best recruiter in a medium regional firm.

The nominees were chosen through a survey of trainee and newly-qualified solicitors conducted by the website to identify the best trainers and recruiters in the nation's solicitors' profession.

Tollers' director and training principal Carol Scudamore, said: "The success of a firm like Tollers is largely dependent upon the quality of our staff.

"We aim to recruit the very best and then to provide them with an excellent training programme to ensure their further success.

"Last year we won an award for excellent customer servic'.

"This year, we are delighted to have been nominated for a recruitment award.

"Together, these achievements demonstrate our commitment to our staff and to our clients alike."

The awards at a ceremony takes place at Forbes House, London, tomorrow (June 5).

There's more to life than money

MORE than three quarters of workers would take a reduction in pay if it meant that they could have their dream job, according to new research.

Monster.co.uk recently asked 2.229 workers in the UK: 'Would you take a pay cut for the job of your dreams?' and results revealed that a total of 80 per cent would take a cut in wages for a more fulfilling job.

The UK was only topped by Swiss, Italian and Irish workers, with Irish workers proving to be the most likely to take less money for the job of a lifetime at 84 per cent.

Julian Acquari managing director of Monster UK and Ireland said: "It's gratifying that European workers see there is more to life than just money.

Finding the right job for someone is just as important as finding the right person for the job it has to be a positive relationship for both the employee and employer."

According to the survey there are several different areas that are key to a successful and happy career.

JOB SATISFACTION

Dreading work every morning will not help motivation. People who don't get job satisfaction should consider improving their role or looking elsewhere.

CURRENT PROSPECTS

You should have a clear career path outlined by your managers. If the opportunities for progression are limited, then looking for a new job may be of benefit.

SKILLS SET

You should have the required skills to do your job properly and, if not, ask for the relevant training to address this.

EARNINGS AND BENEFITS

While money isn't everything to most workers surveyed, the rewards are needed to ensure that your quality of life is not impacted.

WORK-LIFE BALANCE

For some workers, their job and workplace actually enhance their social life. While this isn't the case for everyone, you should still have plenty of time to enjoy your own personal time without work getting in the way.

CONTACT NETWORK

Having the right contacts in the industry can be a key requirement for success.

Rather than staying in a job they are unhappy with workers can check out www.monster.co.uk for career advice, plus some hints about how to succeeed in the future.

For those looking for something completely different, there are also tips on how to change career paths entirely.

New sales boss at Bletchley firm

BLETCHLEY-BASED Project First has appointed Richard Spurgeon as its sales and marketing director.

Richard joins Project First from the Hoffman Group.

Prior to that he worked for a number of blue chip organisations including RS Components and Beiersdorf AG, in the UK, Ireland, and Australia.

Richard will be responsible for co-ordinating all sales activity across the Project First Group, assessing group-wide sales processes in order to realise all potential opportunities within the company.

He will also have the day-to-day responsibility for running GH England and Primo Products, reviewing and developing strategy.

Above all, Richard says he wants to 'provide our customers with the highest levels of customer service. We are in the fantastic position of being one of the very few companies within the commercial refrigeration sector equipped to offer our customers a complete end-to-end product and service solution'.

Mark Stratford, MD of Project First, says of the appointment: "With the continued growth of the company, having a dedicated sales and marketing director makes sound economic sense. I am sure you will join me in wishing Richard success in his new position and career at Project First."

BECOME A MULTI-SKILLED ENERGY ASSESSOR AND HOME INSPECTOR

From 1st October all commercial properties being sold or let and all homes being rented out will start needing an Energy Assessment carried out by a newly qualified Energy Assessor. All homes being sold already require them. In total over 3 million properties will need to be visited in the first 12 months by thousands of new and already qualified Assessors. Homes can also already have optional Home Condition Reports carried out by less than 1,000 currently certified new Home Inspectors with over 7,000 more being needed if Government confirm these Reports are also compulsory.

Applicants are therefore required now to train to become multi-skilled Assessors and Home Inspectors in their spare time. No previous surveying experience is required.

Up to 15 domestic Assessments or 6 commercial Assessments or 6 Reports are estimated to be carried out in a week, subject to size of properties and supply.

You could become one of these new multi-skilled Energy Consultants and Home Inspectors and start an exciting new professional career with potential multiple income streams as a result of all this new legislation. MKMOTORING

Panoramic Peugeot 308

PERRYS has welcomed a brand new member of the Peugeot 308 family to the showroom, providing customers with a stylish and spacious family car that can seat up to seven people.

The 308 SW builds on the success of the 308 hatchback to offer more interior space and the option of removable modular seating to create a truly adaptable vehicle.

This is the ideal solution for those who are uninspired by the design of conventional estate cars and medium sized MPVs, and seek a stylish car that has plenty of space and flexibility.

Its unique concept and sleek and stylish design will make it an appealing choice for Perrys customers who are looking for a versatile vehicle that combines both style and practicality.

Its modular design means that it can be adapted simply and efficiently according to the requirement of use and number of passengers travelling, with a five plus two seating configuration on selected models.

Available in three trim levels, S, Sport and SE; the 308 SW has plenty of exciting features to choose from and for the ultimate adaptability, the SE has two third row occasional seats as standard which makes it the only seven seater estate car in its class.

Two extra seats are also available as an option on Sport models.

The 308 SW also has the option of a stunning Cielo glass roof on most models, which really adds to the feeling of space and freedom, and is a great way to keep any younger passengers entertained with its breathtaking panoramic view.

The 308 SW will be powered by eight engine options, including five petrol engines and three HDi diesel engines, some of which feature six speed gearboxes.

With an economically and climate friendly focus, the state of the art diesel engine of the 1.6 HDi 90 model combines great driveability with low fuel consumption, which can achieve fuel consumption of over 70 mpg on an extra urban drive cycle and has very low CO2 emissions of 125 (g/km).

Mike Beevis, dealer principal at Perrys in Milton Keynes comments: "The 308 SW is a welcome addition to the showroom and builds on the success of the 308 hatchback which has been a hit with Perrys customers since its arrival last autumn.

The 308 SW really provides customers with the best of both worlds, offering superior style and practicality for flexible family living.

With a starting price of just £14,395, there's no better time to visit Perrys and be one of the first to drive the new Peugeot 308 SW."

For more information or to arrange a test drive, please contact Perrys on 01908 360 200 or visit the dealership on Bilton Road, Bletchley, Milton Keynes. Alternatively, visit the website at www.peugeot.co.uk/perrys_milton_keynes

‘Mr Determination’ signs for six months

BY SIMONE CORGAN
simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

SIXTEEN months after suffering a career-threatening leg break Paul Mitchell has signed a new contract with MK Dons.

The midfielder has agreed terms for a six-month deal to keep him at stadiummk.

The news comes just a month after playing in his first football match in over a year.

Mitchell, 26, suffered a sever double leg break at Notts County in February, 2007 and has since been working his way back to fitness in a long, gruelling schedule.

It has been a frustrating year to be sat on the side lines as Mitch has watched the Dons win the League Two title and the Johnstone's Paint Trophy in a spectacular season.

But the Manchester-born midfielder has stayed in the thick of the action commentating for MK Dons' Dons World and writing his own column for MK NEWS.

Mitchell, who joined the Dons on loan in December 2004 from Wigan before signing permanently in the summer of 2005, saw his long hard work in the gym pay off when he took to the field in May.

He managed to play 25 minutes in a reserve game against Norwich.

Despite the short game time Mitch's determination has been enough for Paul Ince to decide to sign him on for the start of the 2008/09 season.

Mitchell's contract did run out last summer but in a kind-hearted gesture chairman Pete Winkelman kept his contract running for another year – even though he knew Mitchell was unlikely to feature in a game.

Nearing full fitness, Mitchell is currently continuing his recovery at the Football Association's rehabilitation centre in Lilleshall.

Fitness fightback: Paul Mitchell

MK Dons Women’s Academy are now recruiting.

A selected squad of 16-20 girls will play in the British Colleges Sport and SESSA league whilst also training three times a week, alongside their selected college course.

The academy, which will be hosted at Milton Keynes College, will set the girls through their paces in a trial process and once selected will be issued with training kit, MK College pack and the enrolment onto an FA Coaching Course.

The college has already successfully run both a recreational and elite squad over the past two years and has now teamed up with MK Dons Education and Sports Trust in order to provide a player pathway for females aged 16 and above that wish to further their education and playing career.

Trails will be taking place at Tattenhoe Pavilion on Wednesday, June 18th at 6.30pm.

For further details or to register your availability for trials contact head coach Marlese Levermore on 01908 688207.

MK Dons are among the favourites for the League One title.

The Dons are being quoted at 9/1 to 12/1 and are just behind favourites Leeds (3/1), and recently relegated Leicester (4/1) for the League One title.

MILTON Keynes Dons Football Club Education and Sports Trust is looking to recruit a Girls and Women’s Development Officer.

The position reports directly to the Community Officer and will support and develop all areas of girls’ and women’s football.

For more details on the position visit their website www.mkdonstrust.co.uk

Reading set to visit Dons

MK Dons’ pre-season schedule is taking shape.

After announcing they will play host to Watford and Sheffield Wednesday the Dons have confirmed they will also take on Reading.

It means three tough Championship oppositions await the Dons in their warm up to a new life in League One.

Paul Ince’s newly promoted Dons will face Reading at stadiummk on Saturday, July 19, kick-off is at 3pm.

It will be the first time Reading, who were relegated from the Premier League on the last day of the season, have visited the Dons’ stadium.

On Wednesday, July 22 Sheffield Wednesday come to town - the kick-off is still to be confirmed.

Fans await Carling Cup draw

THE Carling Cup first round fixtures are soon to be announced.

If the 2008 European Championships were not just about to kick-off football fans would be going into melt-down through the competitive dry-spell.

But the new season is already gearing up and MK Dons will find out who they will meet at the first hurdle of the Carling Cup on Friday, June 13 at 10am.

Last year the Dons knocked out Championship side Ipswich Town in a dramatic penalty shoot-out before falling to Sheffield Wednesday in extra-time.

But it was in 2006 when Tottenham Hotspur, now holders of the cup, came to town in the third round that lives in the memory.

NORTHANTS CRICKET

Batting practice for Black Caps

NEW Zealand warmed up for the third test against England by drawing with Northamptonshire.

The Black Caps used the tour match as a chance to get their batsmen back into form.

They reached 363 and 317-7 before the sides settle for a draw on the third and final day.

New Zealand's massive totals never gave Northants a chance to chase for victory.

Aaron Redmond hit his sixth first-class hundred to steer New Zealand to 329-8 on the first day while Brendan McCullum, captaining in the absence of Daniel Vettori, hit 72.

In response to the first innings Northants declared on 214-9, once Jason Brown had ensured the follow-on was avoided, leaving the visitors with 16 overs to play out. with Johann Louw's 82 the best of the bunch.

But it was Ross Taylor's century that ended hopes of any result other than a draw as he notched up 150 before he retired.

David Wigley finished with match figures of 9-155 against the tourists.

When Northants finally got in for their second innings Stephen Peters hit a rapid 52 before the draw was agreed.

■ NORTHANTS missed out on the last eight of the Friends Provident Trophy despite beating Ireland.

They handed Ireland a 99 run defeat but Leicester beat Notts to end their hopes.

ICE HOCKEY

Someone old, someone new – but no one blue

Adam Carr in close battle with a Peterborough Pirate last season

MK Lightning have someone old and someone new for the season ahead.

The ice hockey side have announced that team captain Gary Clarke will be returning for his ninth year with the club while James Archer has joined from Coventry Blaze.

They join Adam Carr and Nick Poole on the roster for Lightning's 2008/09 English Premier League season.

Fans will be delighted to see free-scoring Clarke sign on the dotted line.

Player-coach Poole was also thrilled to see Clarke join for his seventh consecutive season with Lightning and had nothing but praise for the man who will again have the captaincy next year.

Poole said: "He has been key in all the success that we have achieved to date and will be key once again this season.

"Gary is a rare player in our league and one that we are incredibly lucky to have. He is such a consistent goal scorer that many hockey people seem to take for granted what he has achieved over the last 10 years. Not only is he a leader in the scoring charts but he has also become a great leader in the room and for his all round play on the ice."

Clarke, who was called up to the GB squad last season, has his eyes set on ending a record of two seasons without a trophy.

He said: "With us coming so close and with a few changes to our team I am confident we will this season reach our goal and bring back silver wear to MK which is what everyone associated to the club from players to management and not forgetting the very loud and loyal fans deserve."

While Clarke is an old hand at playing in Milton Keynes it is a new prospect for Archer.

The forward had spent two years with rivals Peterborough Phantoms before joining a two way deal with Sheffield and Coventry.

Lightning believe Archer's eye for goal, but solid defence, will fill a role that has been missing of late.

Archer said: "I am really looking forward to playing in Milton Keynes this season, as this is an excellent opportunity for me. I have been working hard in the gym and intend to continue doing so throughout the summer so I can get back to playing the way I was two years ago in the EPL."

Poole added: "I am thrilled to have James in our side next season. I have always admired the talents that James has had but more importantly have been impressed by his work rate and his commitment during games."

Miserable MK

MORRANTS FOUR COUNTIES LEAGUE

DIVISION ONE

MILTON Keynes are continuing to have a miserable time after defeat to Cublington kept them at the foot of the table.

Steve George hit 56 not out as Cublington reached 151-9 and MK's response fell flat as they were all out for 97.

MK are now 32 points adrift at the bottom.

Eaton Bray are 16 points clear at the top following their close victory over MK City.

Paul Loveland's 5-16 ensured Bray were dismissed for 110 and gave City a decent chance of victory.

But City struggled with the bat and fell 15 runs short of their total.

A five wicket defeat to North Crawley means Newport Pagnell Town stay second from bottom.

Gly Davies' unbeaten 85 guided Winslow Tow to a three wicket win over Aspley Guise.

No play was possible between Olney Town and New Bradwell.

DIVISION TWO

EDLESBOROUGH remain unbeaten at the top following a seven wicket win against Aston Clinton but Elstow kept up the pressure with victory at Biddenham.

A poor 49 all out by Biddenham ensured Elstow eased to the win with nine wickets to spare.

Stewkley inched ahead of Soulbury into third place after beating their rivals by four wickets.

Open University's match with Studham and Old Bradwell's with Mentmore were abandoned.

DIVISION THREE

PIP Young's superb unbeaten 115 was not enough to give top placed Milton Bryan victory as Drayton Parslow made sure the points were shared for a draw.

Turvey handed a 50 run defeat toEaton Bray 2nds, who stay bottom and five points behind their nearest rivals.

A half-century from Stewart Chapman helped New Bradwell to a draw with Caddington.

Shenley Church End's game against North Crawley 2nds could not take place while Eggington Forresters and Whitchurch collected 10 points as their match was also abandoned.

DIVISION FOUR

STOKE Hammond made ground on leaders MK City with a seven wicket win at Harlington.

While Hammond were collecting 25 points City slipped up as they drew with Willen.

An all round display from Sangram 6-30 with the ball and 62 with the bat helped Milton Keynes 2nds to a 12 run win over Old Bradwell 2nds.

A mid-table clash with Tottenhoe and Willen saw the points shared.

Steeple Claydon collected 10 vital points as no play was possible against Cranfield University.

DIVISION FIVE

LITTLE Horwood won their third game of the season to stay in third place but are still 53 points behind Cublington.

They beat Stewkley 2nd by seven wickets while Tring Park 4th lost to Turvey, who stay second.

No play was possible between Wing and Olney Town 2nds.

DIVISION six north was a washout.

CHERWELL LEAGUE

MK Park made it four wins in four and brought their total tally to three figures at the weekend.

Park handed Oxford & Bletchingdon Nondescripts, who went a year without losing, their second defeat in as many games.

It was easy work to bowl Oxford out for just 55 as seamers James Sprittles (5-17) and Mark Roberts (4-13) tore through the line up without only one player reaching double figures.

Oxford proved a little more difficult to roll over when they had the ball as they made Park work for their runs.

Mark Strong took 3-20 but Park eventually made it to 55-5 in the 27th over.

NORTHANTS PREMIER LEAGUE

STONY Stratford had to settle for a winning draw in a frustrating day at Wollaston.

A brilliant knock of 102no from skipper Dion Ebrahim, who was battling illness on the day, set Stony in good stead in an innings where only four batsmen reached double figures.

Ebrahim reached his century in style as he smashed a huge six over mid-wicket to give Stony 196-7.

Steve Bellow took three quick wickets before veteran spinner Stuart Gulliver joined in and had Wollaston reeling at 28-4.

Unfortunately, Stony were unable to make the final break through as Wollaston limped to 159-9.

Come-good man is out to keep up momentum

BY SIMONE CORGAN
simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

IF one player knows the highs and lows of life in League One it's Aaron Wilbraham.

The striker experienced the elation of promotion to the Championship in 2005 with Hull City but then suffered a torrid season that resulted in relegation with the MK Dons the following year.

This time round Wilbraham is determined to make it a different story for the Dons.

The 6ft 3ins star, who belatedly collected his April Powerade Player of the Month Award yesterday, believes success will come to the Dons if they stick with the positive mentality that saw them win League Two title.

"We didn't expect to win the league last season," Wilbraham said, "we wanted to, but we didn't go along with this attitude that we were going to.

"It sounds like a cliche but we took it game by game and that's what we'll do this year.

"It's too early to predict anything, we just need to keep our winning record away from home, make our place hard to come to and keep the team spirit we have here, then have a look where we are in the table at Christmas time."

The season is still nine weeks away yet due to the demands of professional football Wilbraham has already got his running shoes on in a bid to return to pre-season training in top shape.

A pack of prehabilitation work was handed out to the players when the season ended, and it is all work they fit in around their holidays.

Wilbraham admitted he fears picking up an innocuous injury during the close season and he has already turned down jet-skiing on holiday to avoid any minor knocks.

At 28-years-old Wilbraham says last season where he suffered one slight injury after another in training was his worst to date.

"I've never had a season like it. I kept picking up silly injuries that were keeping me out.

"I came good towards the end of the season, so touch wood hopefully I can carry on where I left off."

Wilbraham's 'came good' is an understatement, seven of his ten goals came in his final eleven games.

But the front-man knows he is not necessarily guaranteed a place in the side next year as manager Paul Ince has already stated he wants to sign strikers. I've been around long enough to know new players are going to come but it keeps everyone on their toes and it's more competition for places - that can only be a good thing for the team."

Lee Mason, Director of the Bucks and Milton Keynes Sports Partnership said: "The Bucks Youth Games is our showcase event of the year and promises to be a thoroughly enjoyable and memorable experience for everyone involved.

"We hope that the Games, just like the Beijing Olympic Games this summer and the London Games beyond, will inspire a new generation of youngsters."
